

Kindergarten Newsletter

January 7, 2022

Hello, 2022! We hope everyone had a great Christmas and New Year! We are so happy to be back together again. We have had a great week back. We got back into the swing of our routines nicely. This week we talked about the sky and all of the things we see in the sky. We read books about counting the stars and wrote in our journals about the sky. We talked about New Year's Eve, made party hats and counted down from 10 to say 'happy new year!!' In math we reviewed concepts we had been working on before Christmas break. We used number lines and talked about before, after and in between, and also reviewed time again. In science we learned how different animals adapt to cold climates. We played a game called 'Get read to hibernate!' It was a matching game where students have to find different foods that bears like to eat before going into hibernation. The students played with partners and had a great time.

As we move into the home stretch of our school year we want to stress how important attendance is. Coming to school on time, every day (except when sick, of course) is super important to each and every student. Good attendance in kindergarten sets the foundation for years to come. If your child does have to miss school, please make sure they are completing and turning in all make up work.

We are in need of certain supplies. If your last name starts with M-Z it is your turn to bring classroom supplies. We are mostly in need of copy paper, Clorox wipes and paper towels.

Reminder-your child needs to have a mask on when they come to school. We have been seeing more and more students come to school with no masks. Put a few extra masks in your child's backpack in case you forget to grab one on the way to school. With Covid numbers being on the rise again, we want to do everything we can to keep your children safe and healthy. Thank you for your cooperation!

Have a great weekend!
