

Clemons' Class News!

May 13, 2022

Hello, Parents!

We had a super busy week and I am thrilled to announce that we have completed our math workbook! We are not doing lots of review math and will have several math tests over the next week or so. I am so proud of all their hard work.

We will also really focus on ELA skills over the next couple of weeks. Please be sure your student is working on Prodigy as much as possible each night. I'll be pulling some scores from the Prodigy assignments to be part of their overall English and math grades. They will also have some time in class. The secret word is "test time". I'm so impressed and proud of the progress they have made!

Here is what's in store for next week!

It is important for your student to get plenty of rest, have a healthy breakfast, and come to school relaxed and ready to test Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, May 16-18. It's also important for the students to be on-time to school and stay all day as testing times vary each day.
