Test Scores and Classwork

I am allowing the kids to redo the work they have missed for half credit. So if your child got a lower grade on a test or on a paper then they can resubmit it and for every right answer I will add half a point to their grade to help make up the points they originally missed.

We are working VERY hard on listening fully to the instructions, READING fully the instructions on the paper or in the book, and on our writing and letter formation. We are also working on slowing down. Our classwork and tests are not a race to see who can get done the fastest. So if a o looks like an e, or a b looks like a D, you will see me mark it wrong. We have to get this sorted out this year so they are prepared for the years to come. Also please remind your students to put spaces between their words when writing sentences 😊

Any questions or concerns please shoot me an email or a text.
